Rev. Dr Bellows

The dispatch yesterday announced that this distinguished clergyman had accepted the invitation given to him by the Society, of which Mr King was the minister, and would leave New York on the first steamer in April We are highly gratified at this intelligence, for we are sure that he can come nearer to filling the vacancy, so sadly and suddenly caused by the lamented death of Starr King, than almost any other preacher in the Union Dr Bellows is a true man with a lively heart and an open hand His great services during the last two years in behalf of the Sanitary Commission have given him a National reputation and inspired the confidence and the cordial affection of every loyal man in the land In San Francisco, he will find ardent friends who will welcome and sustain him with whole souled and untiring liberality His great eloquence and patriotic fervor will be fully recognized and admired, nor will this just appreciation be confined to the immediate sphere of his pastoral duties The whole Pacific Coast will greet his coming, and will prove its faith by its works, by generously responding to his ardent appeals in favor of the suffering soldier. We trust that his life and health may be spared for a long career of eminent usefulness and that the people of our own State may be permitted to become personally acquainted with him and to show how greatly they esteem his patriotic services

The Overland Mail Contract.

The Washington correspondent of the Sacramento Union writes the following in regard to the proposed arrangement after the expiration of the present contract We hope whatever course be adopted, there will be no diminution of the present facilities, which may be better than none, but certainly are not what they should be

"When the Overland Mail Company had their contract changed from the Southern to the Central or Salt Lake line, such influence was brought to bear upon Congress as compelled that company to divide with Russell, of the firm of Russell, Majors & Co then in the zenith of his fraudulent greatness The Overland Mail Company took the line from Placerville to Salt Lake City and Russell took that from Salt Lake City to the Missouri river Subsequently, this big concern of contractors, Russell & Co, failed, and Holladay, being a creditor, came in and took possession of the route, stock and traps between the termini of the Russell section of the route At this time, the Overland Mail Company, which had been faithfully filling its contract between Salt Lake and Placerville, attempted to regain possession of the eastern section of the route but failed, owing to the high price set upon the stock, etc, upon the line now owned by Holladay. Accordingly, the whole service continues to be a divided one, and it is so to this day, the entire contract being about to expire.

"But now appear on the ground at Washington agents of the Overland Mail Company, anxious that their contract shall be renewed There is no complaint as to the service on their end of the route, and if some responsible party shall be willing to take the contract on the eastern end of the route it would appear as though the other end would continue in its present hands, but in the present scarcity of material for stocking and refitting the road, and considering the high price set by Holladay upon his traps, it does not appear at all likely that any outside party will attempt to compete with him. In this dilemma, the agents of the Overland Mail Company say that if a price can be agreed upon, and they will be allowed a contract of five years they will take the entire route, dispensing entirely with Holladay's material on the route, and reducing the running time materially from the present schedule Postmaster General Blair is in the way, as he appears to favor Holladay consequently, recourse must be had to Congress, and the Senate Post Office Committee has now a bill under consideration instructing the Postmaster General to make a contract with the Overland Mail Company, stipulating all of the conditions, time, penalties, etc etc, the Department reserving the right to abrogate or shorten the time of the contract By this means it is very likely that the Pacific slope will be served by a regular, reliable and speedily transmitted mail"

A SHAMEFUL DIFFERENCE —While General Gantt and very many others in the seceded States who were active rebels but have repented of their mad and foolish disloyalty—are strenuously urging their neighbors to accept of the offer of pardon, made by the President, and assuring them that it is as liberal as could be expected or asked, Northern democrats in Congress and in conventions of their party, are denouncing 'the proclamation as unwise, inexpedient, revolutionary and unconstitutional ' Repentant rebels at the South advise submission, so that peace may be restored obstinate rebels at the North calling themselves democrats, advise Jeff Davis and the rest of their party to hold out and to continue their opposition to the Government, so that the war may g[illegible] or a peace obtained which shall acknowledge the independence of the treasonable States? How base! How shameful is the conduct of these [illegible] They seek to shut the gates of mercy and to hinder and delay returning loyalty. They insult both sections by their unprincipled and [illegible] interference Their course is ten fold more [illegible] than that of the leaders in the South and [illegible] in a [illegible] the universal [illegible] of the world

Funeral of the Late Thos Starr King

From the S F Bulletin [illegible]

Thomas Starr King [illegible] greater [illegible] than [illegible] living At [illegible] o'clock in the morning the doors of the church were opened [illegible] until [illegible] time congregation numbered [illegible] thousands and composed of all religious denominations poured through the aisles [illegible] over the burial case where the former pastor lay with hands crossed in dumb prayer—listening to the mute but eloquent sermon of that upturned face and [illegible] Loving hands had fest[illegible] the church with wreaths of Egyptian lilies—those flowers which with their single petal, white suggest the tomb and all the sad thoughts and ceremonies that attend even the greenest grave—National banners their bright stars clouded with crape and their crimson stripes veiled draped the altar and threw their folds over the coffin, the mantle of patriotism which fell upon his shoulders in life, enveloping and shrouding the form within in death The apron of the Order of which he was Grand Orator and other signs and symbols of the Masonic craft were there. Flowers of the forest shed their perfume over the body, and on the breast lay a chaplet of spring violets placed there by the request of a lady once a resident of this city, now dwelling at the East, who telegraphed on Saturday to one who like her, loved the deceased "Put violets for me on our dear friend who rests" It was a kindly thought prompted by the graceful tenderness of a woman's heart the flowers will be fragrant in the grave as the memory of the deceased is in the hearts of his friends—and these are only numbered by the city's population

A military guard detailed for the duty was stationed in and about the church, preserving [illegible] among the dense crowd which so early as noon time began to throng about the doors The butts of muskets rang on the marble floors beneath which one was to sleep who believed that christians may wear arms when the cause is just and prayer be helmeted and mailed if the vindication of great human principles demand it It is safe to say that such an immense assemblage has not been seen before in this city for many years The congregation first passed into the church, and found their accustomed pews, the Governor and other State and Governmental dignitaries were seated, and then the main doors were thrown open for the reception of so many others as the church could contain Not a square inch of floor was left unbodied, or aisle that was not pressed by some foot The gallery groaned with its great human freight like a ship at sea, on whose decks a mad weight of water has leaped, and so crowded looked the faces in that great bracket of life affixed to the walls, that the effect was stereoscopic and all seemed to resolve themselves into one So densely were the audience packed that several ladies fainted away, and even men struggled to the doors for air But there was no exit for lobby, vestibule, and even the street for a block or more was packed with human wedges So thick was the crowd outside that the street was only passed with difficulty after long and tedious urging It was like bees swarming on the outside of a hive, while through Stockton street, north and south, a tide of people going and coming flowed in one continuous stream

The services began at 2 o'clock, with a voluntary on the organ, by Mr Trenkle A most impressive scene was afforded. The solemn [illegible] swelled through the church in a plaintive, mournful psalm, the instrument seemed for the moment to have a human heart within its walls wailing its grief in sounds that were like the falling of tears In the front pews of the church sat the masons each wearing an acacia sprig, and the habiliments of the Order Through the stained glass of the ceiling and the sides, and the great rose window at the end of the church, the afternoon sun sifted its mellow rays like a benediction, crowning the coffin and altar with a glory of light and color Minute guns from Alcatraz mingled their heavy bass with the notes of the organ —soon a nearer battery in Union Square took up the burden, and there was an anthem of cannon swelling with its grand diapason the solemnity of the services This is said to be the first time in the history of the country that minute guns have been fired by the order of the Government in honor of a civilian who never held a public position

The 39th Psalm was chanted by the choir and following this the Rev. Mr. Kittredge read the 23d Psalm—the one which Mr King repeated on his death bed The Grand Master then commenced to read the impressive burial service of the Masonic ritual, choir and organ chanting the responses The first prayer of the ritual was offered by Mr Kittredge and the remainder of the service slightly varied in accordance with the unusual burying place was read by the Grand Master At the proper interval in the service the vault beneath the altar was opened and amid a voluntary from the organ, the coffin was lowered down to its last resting place the Secretary of the Lodge dropped his roll upon it and the Grand Master his acacia branch The last prayer of the ritual was offered by the Rev J D Blain, benediction was offered by Mr Kittredge the Masonic brotherhood filing past the vault flung into it the acacia sprig emblem which each wore on his breast, the ceremonies were ended and the great crowd went out into the streets and to their homes

Besides the anthems by the full choir solos "I know that my Redeemer liveth," and "Come ye disconsolate" were sung the former by Mrs Grotjean the latter by Mrs Leach All through the city during the day with scarcely an exception, at all the principal buildings and also at the forts and army headquarters, national flags were at half mast and colors at the residence of nearly all the foreign Consuls were similarly lowered Most of the American shipping in the harbor lowered its bunting and the foreign shipping almost to a vessel followed the example the flags of Hamburg, Colombia, Russia, France and Great Britain being among the others thus displayed On board the only war vessel in port the Russian steamer Bogatyr the Russian ensign, lowered from the peak stood at halfmast during the day If anything can mitigate the grief of his friends for his death some flowers of consolation may surely be plucked from the fact that he was thus universally mourned The following telegram was yesterday received from the Rev Dr Bellows

NEW YORK March [illegible] 1864

T[illegible] [illegible] have broken our hearts The [illegible] here will weep with you over his bier You have lost our brightest our noblest [illegible] [illegible] lived and died in the fulness of his [illegible] in your service Who shall fill his place on the platform in the pulpit in the hearts of a million of friends

[illegible]

THE AFFECTION OF [illegible] little human [illegible] I remember [illegible] that little [illegible] I Ohio [illegible] Ninth Virginia [illegible] but hastened away to [illegible] with coffee kettles [illegible] —and straightway little fires began to twinkle [illegible] the savory [illegible] the gridiron and the aroma of coffee rose like the fragrant cloud of a thank offering Loyal guests and rebel hosts were mingled [illegible] hungry boys ate and were satisfied and for that [illegible] stood acquitted of the heavy charge of total depravity with which it is blackened Night and our boys departed together The prisoners were duly exchanged and are now encamped within rifle shot of Kelly's Ferry, on the banks of the Tennessee But often around the camp fires I have heard them talk of the 5th Virginia that proved themselves so immeasurably better than a brother afar off heard them wonder where they were and discuss the chance that they might ever meet When they denounced the "damnable Johnny Rebs" the name of one regiment, you may be sure, was tucked away in a snug place quite out of the range of hard words

And now comes the sequel that makes a beautiful poem of the whole of it On the day of the storming of Mission Ridge among the prisoners was the fifty fourth Virginia, and on Friday it trailed away across the pontoon bridge and along the mountain road nine mile to Kelly's Ferry Arrived there it settled upon the bank like wasps awaiting the boat A week elapsed and your correspondent followed suit The major of the Third Ohio welcomed me to the warm hospitalities of his quarters, and almost the first thing he said was, "You should have been here last Friday you missed the denouement of the beautiful little drama of ours whose first act I have told you Will you believe the 54th Virginia has been here? Some of our boys were on duty at the landing when it arrived What regiment is this?' they asked, and when the reply was given, they started for camp like quarter horses and shouted, as they rushed in and out among the smoky [illegible] of the Sibley's—'The 54th Virginia is at the Ferry!' The camp swarmed in three minutes Treasures of coffee bacon sugar beef preserved peaches everything were turned out in force and you may believe that went laden with plenty at the double quick to the Ferry" The same old scene and yet how strangely changed The twinkling fires the grateful incense the hungry captives, but guests and hosts had changed places, the star lit folds floated aloft for the bonny blue flag, a debt of honor was paid to the uttermost farthing If they had a triumph [illegible] at Chattanooga hearts were [illegible] at Kelly's Ferry And there it was that horrid war smiled a human smile and a grateful gentle light flickered for a moment on the point of the bayonet And yet should the 54th Virginia return to-morrow with arms in their hands to the Tennessee the 3d Ohio would meet them on the bank fight them foot to foot, and beat them back with a ruin so pitiless the river would run red —Taylor's Chattanooga Letter

THE CASE STATED —General B Brown, a democrat now serving with his brigade in Missouri, recently wrote home to a friend in Ohio a letter dated Jefferson City, January 5th, from which the Toledo Blade extracts the following

'Missouri is very quiet The recruiting of negro soldiers has had a good effect. All parties sustain it Slaveholders Conservatives and Radicals see no other way but to employ the negro You will recollect that over a year ago I wrote to you that the people of Missouri were far ahead of the politicians, and that the army unanimously sustained the policy of using negroes to fight slave propagandists Our Northern Democrats doubted this, but the result has proved that I was right But while the people have learned that this was to become the settled policy of the war, and that the negro and every other means will be used in its prosecution, the army has taken another long stride in advance of them Looking upon slavery as the cause of the war the army says Remove the cause! When peace comes it will be with Slavery entirely removed or in a state of progressive removal in all the country—and all the world will say 'So mote it be' The slaveholders have killed the 'Goose that laid the Golden Egg' in making a war to protect Slavery, and when they fired the first gun from Morris Island, it was its death knell It will be peace with Slavery dead, and its grave protected by freed men with arms guarding against its resurrection '

TEN REBELS FOR SEVEN YANKEES —The Richmond Sentinel in speaking of the exchange of prisoners says "For every ten of our men delivered at this point we have returned but seven Yankees" What a let down on the part of the "chivs" who used to claim that one rebel was equal to five Yankees now acknowledging that seven Yankees are equivalent to ten of their boasted chivalry

THE CONCERT MONDAY EVENING —The concert by the Presbyterian Choir under the direction of Mr J B Wyatt, which was expected to take place in the new Presbyterian Church, will be given at the Methodist Church as it is feared the painting in the former will not be sufficiently dry The Choir regret that they are obliged to announce this deviation from the original arrangement, and althoug[illegible] they hope to accommodate their friends equally as well, wish it stated that ticket money will be refunded at the door, to any who may feel dissatisfied with the change The pieces selected for the occasion, comprise some excellent choruses, duetts, quartettes, solos, and patriotic airs, which, together with the well known ability of the Choir, and the fact that they are to be assisted with Piano accompaniment by Mr Goetz and Mrs A. Holbrook should be a sufficient inducement for all to attend, that would be able to get into the House The object of the Choir in giving this concert is to present some substantial token of their regard to two of the lady singers, Mrs J W J Pierson, and Mrs R P Mead, for their services the past four or five years, in maintaining it, refusing any compensation in the meantime, other than the pride and satisfaction it has furnished them in keeping up such an excellent Choir, by the aid of their voices For them this concert is given, and it is to be hoped their efforts may be appreciated, and the reward ample Professor Sinsheim furnishes the Piano to be used on the occasion, free of any charge—it is a very fine new one

WARM DAYS —The week has been noted for pleasant days The streets, which usually present an appearance of repugnance, have been lined with [illegible] "turn outs" our country can produce and the fine horses have shown as much satisfaction as did their owners, in the display The beautiful weather has not only called people out in the day time, in imitation of the gaieties of older and wealthier cities, but the magnificent moon light evenings have been improved in the best possible manner The promenades have been thronged, evening receptions have been given, the Theatre has been crowded, and everything that goes to make up the sum total of a really metropolitan city, has pretty much had a taste in Portland, during this week of fine days

THE DRIVES —Now while our people are enjoying the fine weather in "driving out," it may not be unimportant to state that the Portland and Milwaukie Macadamized Road is in excellent condition and open to the public The ferry boat Milwaukie is in the river, at the termination of the road, ready at all times to cross teams The Swan Island road is in very good condition, and forms a pleasant drive, for a short one The Powell Valley Road and the Sandy Road are both in much better condition than usual, at this season of the year The Union Course is said to be in fine trim, although we haven't tried it.

THEATRICAL —In consequence of a sudden indisposition of Mrs Leighton, prior to the performance last evening, at Willamette Theatre, the Manager was compelled to substitute a bill different from that previously announced —Miss Fanny Morgan appearing as Judy O Trot in "Ireland as it Is," all of which was rendered by the Company to the evident satisfaction of the audience The afterpieces were "Mr & Mrs White" and "Raising the Wind"

THE PLAZA FENCE —Several lengths of the Plaza fence were put in place yesterday, and they give an idea of what it is to be, that is a really fine structure The whole work, when completed, will be very creditable to the city. But we shall feel ashamed of it until the streets are smoothed over a little

POLICE BUSINESS —For several days the services of our Police have been little required This must be refreshing, after two or three weeks hard work The Recorder is engaged in making out the annual finance report of drunks, fines imposed, etc

FOR ST HELENS —The bark Iwanowna, Capt Brown, took her departure last evening, in tow of the steamer Cowlitz, for St Helens, where she will receive a cargo of pile timber for San Francisco

ERRATA —The second anniversary Ball of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, will be given on Tuesday evening, March 22, at Gymnasium Hall Not "Monday evening next," as we erroneously stated yesterday

THE Senator was loaded at Oregon City yesterday with 52 tons of freight, 40 tons of which was in wheat, delivered at Milwaukie Her passenger list was light

ARRESTED —A man was arrested at Levin's Station on Thursday, on suspicion of being the murderer of Mrs Long near Jacksonville, recently The prisoner was taken to Jacksonville

THE BARK ALMATIA —This bark sailed from San Francisco on the 5th, for Portland She is expected to morrow, in tow of the Couch

PERSONAL —Mr Geo B Waldron, and Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne, were in the city yesterday They return to the Dalles this morning

MARKET REPORT AND REVIEW

FRIDAY, March 18th—1 P M

Transactions from first hands for the past few days [illegible] continue [illegible] light [illegible] article that [illegible] trade.

Shipments from [illegible] the same as for the past [illegible] week. Very light, almost [illegible].

The [illegible] Flour has [illegible] less excited [illegible] to our last Review. Prices have [illegible] slightly, transactions however are light. The bark Industry took 1'00 sks to San Francisco sailing this morning. We quote Standard Mills $ [illegible] Country brands are selling at $5 [illegible].

Feed Grains are in limited supply and [illegible] good prices. Several tons of Oats have been shipped to California recently.

The complaint about the drouth is universal in our California exchanges. The miners, as well as the farmers are wailing over it—and the parched pasture lands of the Southern country are strewn with the collapsed frames of the starved and starving cattle.

The Bulletin of the 4th [illegible] comments on the state of the San Francisco Market.

Speculation in the staff of life still continues quite rampant, notwithstanding the unusual large stock of wheat yet remaining [illegible] city and country warehouses [illegible] Grains also participate largely in the present [illegible] we admit the real cause for an advance in [illegible] Barley and Oats. Bran and Hay are also on the rise [illegible] the present drought [illegible] are [illegible] price of flour has advanced [illegible] $7 a bbl [illegible] refused for best samples of milling Wheat [illegible] Barley.

Butter has advanced. Coffee is rather tending to a decline. Sugar is somewhat higher. Prices of many leading articles are poorly sustained.

The fruit market is quiet. Shipments are light—[illegible] 000 bxs inferior descriptions of Oregon apples sold in San Francisco on the 4th at $1 25 to $2 75 per box.

STATE'S MACKEREL NO 1 for sale at HARRINGTON'S.

TESTIMONY OF AN ENEMY TO THE INTEGRITY OF GEN BANKS —While I have possessed myself of an array of facts which will tell with fearful effect upon the subordinates of Mr Lincoln, when they come to be produced I am free to say that Gen Banks maintains his integrity, and while his subordinates will "on retiring from the service," roll in luxury from the effects [illegible] the law and their violations [illegible] regulations he himself will go out of [illegible] without a dollar that is not legitimately his [illegible] This admission I am compelled to make [illegible] Gen Banks has steadily denied [illegible] in every thing I have asked since he took Butler's place a year ago I shall not be charged with having any special reasons for doing him justice An incident occurred in [illegible] headquarters yesterday which will give your readers a faint idea of how much interest is felt in this war by the patriotic men who get up regiments and companies for the service

Enter an ex colonel of a Massachusetts regiment, and after waiting for an interview a colloquy something like the following occurs

Ex Col —"Good morning, general"

Gen B —"Good morning sir I am very happy to see you"

Ex Col —"General, I called to ask you for a pass to go to New Iberia"

Gen B —"Your name is ——"

Ex-Col —"Yes, sir"

Gen B —"You were colonel of the Massachusetts —— regiment"

Ex Col —"Yes, sir, I did command that regiment"

Gen B —"And you resigned your commission to engage in speculation"

Ex Col —"Why, general, you would not suppose I should continue in the service when I saw a chance to make twenty or thirty thousand dollars in a few months"

Gen B.—Sir, I did not come here to make money by speculation, and it is because men like yourself are willing to see my command broken up, if they can accomplish their own purposes, that this department is in no better condition to-day. I give no passes to New Iberia, sir, and especially I shall not grant one to you. Good morning' sir"

Exit Ex-colonel—evidently considering how he shall get to New Iberia without Gen Banks pass —N O Cor Boston Courier

THE COAL OIL TRADE —Our fossils are making the nation rich It is surprising how suddenly a new discovery is made to take rank as an important staple No other country in the world has been so ripe for such extraordinary transitions The Romans knew that England abounded in tin, but centuries elapsed before it rose to the dignity of a commercial staple—and it was exactly so with her iron North America seems to be an all respects, an exceptional region Coal and iron rose here, with a single life time, into National importance The gold of California became a gigantic staple within a twelve month. The last of these extraordinary eccentricities is petroleum Four years have been sufficient to elevate it from the worthless condition of a floating pellicle on the surface of an obscure creek to the rank of a prime staple, of which the world cannot get enough There is nothing in the history of industrial development to equal the progress it has made When the country first heard that an adventurer in Western Pennsylvania had dug a well from which gushed out a thousand gallons of oil daily, the multitudes refused to believe Many of those who did believe were sure the flow would quickly fall off—it was impossible such luck should last It not only did last, but has been matched by hundreds of others. Up to 1863, the progress of the petroleum trade astonished everybody But that of the past year has exceeded all expectation It is evident the wells have no bottom What the product for the year has been we cannot say It may be that in the excitement of a highly prosperous business no account has been kept But the Custom House figures give some indication Petroleum is exported to every country in the world. In 1861 we shipped 1,112,476 gallons in 1862 it rose to 10,887,701 gallons, and in 1863 it reached the extraordinary quantity of 28,000,000 Of this total, 19,544,604 gallons were shipped from this port In addition to this foreign export, the home demand is enormous Ships for conveying it to England are constructed oil tight, and the barrels emptied directly into the hold, thus carrying it in bulk The export of last year employed what was equal to 252 ships of 1,000 tons each and was worth near $15,000,000, if refined, or about $12 000 000 if crude The export for this year is estimated at 40,000,000 gallons —N Y Tribune

COURTS WILL DIFFER.—The Supreme Judicial Court, the highest tribunal in Massachusetts, the decision of which always commands unanimous respect, has lately considered the "legal tender," question, in a case arising upon a note in these words

CHICOPEE, December 31, 1861

$500 —For value received I promise to pay Joseph E Wood or order five hundred dollars on demand, with interest, the above payable in specie

A BULLENS

The Court decided that it is one of the attributes of sovereignty to change the value of money, and Congress, in accordance with this right clearly vested in it, having declared legal tender Treasury notes to be money, the courts of law must conform to the change, and regard that as a dollar which Congress declares to be so. In arguing the point it says "A judgment in a suit upon a note must be rendered for a certain sum in money, expressed in dollars and cents Execution must issue for this sum with cost, and the amount is to be collected If we were to add to the amount of the note and interest a further sum, for example one hundred dollars as a premium on specie, the execution would still be collectible in money If the officer could seize a sufficient amount of gold or silver to pay the execution and costs, he would pay the plaintiff the specie, and thus the plaintiff would obtain more than the amount of his debt If the defendant's goods should be sold at auction on execution, and the purchasers should pay in specie the same result would follow If land should be set off on execution, its value may be so changed by the condition of the currency as to effect the interests of the parties materially It may be that the judgment will remain unsatisfied till gold shall, as merchandise, sink below par This would again affect the interests of the parties and the value of the judgment. The weekly fluctuation of the gold market are constantly operating in the same way. But these are matters which are beyond the reach of courts of law They involve values, and sometimes equities which no judicial tribunal can adjust or regulate All that courts can do is to treat as money that which the statutes of the United States legally enacted declare to be money If it were in our power to render a specific judgement, designating the species of currency in which it should be paid, we might avoid some of the existing difficulties, but we have no such authority

INFAMOUS —An old bachelor says Tongues and sounds are esteemed the best parts of cod fish, but they are often the worst part of women

Great cry and little wool—a new born citizen of African descent.

THE INSANE ASYLUM VS THE STATE —Hawthorne & Lorvea contractors of Portland for keeping the insane, made [illegible] the writ of mandamus [illegible] to try the question whether they can exceed the appropriation of twenty thousand dollars made by the last Legislature for keeping the insane

The application was made to Judge B[illegible] who in deciding [illegible]

[illegible]

The eleventh section of the act provides as follows "The Secretary of State is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the State Treasury in favor of the contractors for all moneys due them as per contract And the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and required to pay the same out of any moneys in his hands belonging to the general fund not otherwise appropriated"

At the same session of the Legislature in the general appropriation bill providing for the current expenses of the State twenty thousand dollars was specially appropriated to defray the expenses of keeping the insane under this contract

This sum has already been drawn by the contractors on warrants of the Secretary The warrants on which the moneys has been drawn and this warrant which the plaintiffs ask to have audited are in form as follows to wit

"Treasurer of Oregon pay to Hawthorne & Lorvea, or order— [illegible] and charge to Insane Asylum fund"

On these warrants the State Treasurer refused to pay money from the Treasury exceeding the special appropriation of twenty thousand dollars And this Court is asked (by a writ of mandamus) to direct the Secretary to draw his warrant on the Treasury directing payment out of any moneys in the Treasury not appropriated And it is claimed that section 11 of the act providing for taking care of the insane &c makes an appropriation of an indefinite sum sufficient to meet these expenses whatever they may be out of any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated And that if there is or should be any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, plaintiffs are entitled to draw the same

The Constitution of this State, article 9 section 4 provides "No money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in pursuance of appropriations made by law" Section 7 of the same article also provides "Laws making appropriations for salaries of public officers and current expenses of the State shall contain provisions upon no other subject"

In order, therefore, to authorize the payment of money out of the Treasury there must be 1st an appropriation by law 2d, The law making such appropriation can contain provisions upon no other subject The act of which section 11 is a part is an act to provide for the care and custody of insane and idiotic persons and contains provisions on that subject. Section 11 appropriates an indefinite amount of money to defray the expenses of such care and custody which expenses are a part of the current expenses of the State and are provided for as such and twenty thousand dollars specially appropriated for that purpose (as before stated) It is very obvious that this act contains provisions on subjects other than the appropriations of money I think, therefore that so much of section 11 as appropriates money from the Treasury is conflicting with the provisions of section 7 of article 6 of the Constitution and is consequently void

The warrant of the Secretary is drawn in conformity with the law defining and regulating the duties of that officer, and is, I think correct

The object of this provision of the Constitution is to prevent appropriations made inadvertently and for which no adequate provision is made in the estimate of current expenses and also to prevent appropriations from the Treasury being inserted in laws on other subjects, and passed without due consideration —Statesman

OFFICIAL SALARIES —We print elsewhere the letter of a clerk in one of the Departments of Washington urging that the salaries of his class should be raised so as to make them equivalent to gold. We object to this, and trust it will not be done

Our correspondent gives up the case, when he says that were the clerks to resign and go into some other service, they would do even worse than now That's a fact and it is the reason why they do not resign, and why their salaries should not be raised If they are paid to day as much as they could earn elsewhere, that is all they have a right to ask If they can do better elsewhere they are at perfect liberty to do so! We repel altogether the notion of a 'contract' between them and the Government beyond each month's service! At the expiration of that month any one who chooses may resign, and will if he can improve his condition by so doing Let all who can do better elsewhere resign and, if competent persons cannot be found to take their places we will consent to an increase of salaries But not till!

Whoever sits down deliberately to spend his life and rear a family on the wages of a Department clerkship is prima facie, an indolent, inefficient fellow who would be very unlikely to make a living anywhere Young men may take clerkships but each should get away from Washington before any considerable family grows up around him Let each consider office an accident, and private life the post of honor and the way to true independence —N Y Tribune

Texas presents a sad picture of the ravages of civil war A rebel secret society called the 'Sons of the South' are actively engaged in ferreting out Union men, whom they murder or drive into exile across the Rio Grande Indian raids are of frequent occurrence in the border counties but these excite less terror than the rebel conscription to avoid which many of the German settlers have fled to the woods No fewer than seventy five thousand Texans have been called to arms of whom thirty thousand have been seized or placed hors du combat Many lie in Southern or Northern hospitals, and some are prisoners The advent of Gen Hamilton is hailed by the Union men with a joy that only those can appreciate who have been made victims of rebel persecution

PLAIN SPEAKING —A Newfoundland paper in speaking of the House of Assembly of that island eulogizes it in the following unequivocal language "Take them for all and all from their Speaker downward we do not suppose that a greater set of law breakers and lawless scoundrels, as public men can be found under the canopy of Heaven"

A petrified rattlesnake was found recently in one of the Eastern States Petrified Copperheads were numerous after the fall elections

WINDY —"Did you know I was here?" said the bellows to the fire "Oh yes, I always contrive to get wind of you," was the reply

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT —Four years ago, John Simpson was a successful miner in the neighborhood of Hornitos, and had quite a handsome sum with which he proposed to return to his old home in Indiana and settle down in the enjoyment of a pastoral life with his wife and daughter Five years previously he had bade adieu to them and gone to California, where he hoped to realize a sufficient sum to permit him to lead a life of ease during the remainder of his sojourn upon earth Sober industrious and frugal he was not one who would waste in frivolous amusements or at the gaming table the money he dug from the bosom of the earth and as year after year passed away he saw his store increase until he imagined that the sum was sufficient to realize his hopes He began to make preparations to return home when he received a letter from his daughter informing him that her mother had sickened and died This intelligence caused him to forsake his intention to return to the States He wrote to his daughter telling her of his determination, and sending her funds to pay her passage to California About the time of her expected arrival in San Francisco, he came to the city for the purpose of meeting her and conveying her to his home in the mountains While awaiting the arrival of the steamer he fell into the hands of a party of man-stealers or shanghaiers and was sold to the officer of the ship Morning Star [illegible] bound to Liverpool As the vessel upon which Simpson was a prisoner was going to sea the steamer came into the harbor, and although he was within almost speaking distance he was not permitted to see or speak to his daughter who was on board of her When seized by the press gang, he had between three and four thousand dollars on his person which was taken from him and after a voyage of seven or eight months he found himself a wanderer upon the Liverpool quays with barely money enough in his pockets to keep hunger at bay for a fortnight He made every effort to return to California but without success until about three weeks ago when he arrived on board the Wild Pigeon from Australia His daughter had upon her arrival here, experienced many difficulties young inexperienced, and without a friend to guide her she found herself beset upon all sides, and finally listened to the lying tongues of one who only loved to destroy After being deserted by her destroyer she became a pretty waiter girl in a saloon on Kearny street, where a few nights ago she was seen and recognized by her father The agony of the old man when he found his only daughter a thing of hire in a common rum shop, was painful to behold and he called down upon the heads of those who had been instrumental in effecting this ruin the everlasting curses of Heaven The parent and child left the saloon together, and it may be that a life of comparative happiness yet awaits them —S F Call

REBEL PRISONERS AND THE AMNESTY —There is little doubt that at least one half of the rebel prisoners in our hands would cheerfully avail themselves of the President's Amnesty Proclamation if they had the opportunity of doing so The following extract from a letter written by a captive at Point Lookout to his brother in Washington City expresses the condition and feelings of many rebels now held as prisoners of war

"I am here a prisoner against my will I have no sympathy with the South and although I now wear the uniform of a rebel soldier I never had any sympathy with her I was forced into the rebel ranks in 1862 During that time I have made three attempts to escape the hated service by deserting. The last time I tried to get away I was caught, tried by Court Martial and sentenced to be shot for desertion My life was saved by the interposition of my Colonel I am as loyal to the Union as you are Won't you try and have me released? I would rather die than be exchanged and go back into the rebel ranks There are now in confinement five thousand men who would be glad to take the President's oath, and more than one half of them would gladly join the Union army"

THE COMING OF ROSECRANS —It is a singular circumstance that Gen Rosecrans should be on the eve of assuming command of this Department just as General Grant is about to partake of a public dinner in this city Rosecrans and Grant are known to hate each other cordially — this unfortunate feeling growing out of the battles of Iuka and Corinth —a matter before explained in this correspondence Rosecrans is expected to morrow and the Radical politicians, as an offset to the Grant reception, propose to give him a reception They have something at stake in gaining the good will of Rosecrans, whereas Grant has no power whatever here as a commander In some respects the rival feelings between the Generals is responded to by the rival parties who are doing the honors to each The Radicals expect that Rosecrans will commence at once to slaughter the Conservative officials who have fastened on the Department under Schofield like leeches The Conservatives are standing back and the Radicals are having a free swing in the matter It is interesting to watch their proceedings —Cin's St Louis Cor

MARCHING ON —Judge Tibbits of Arkansas was among merchants on 'Change yesterday In the course of conversation he said he was compelled to leave his State for the North some time ago subsequent to the breaking out of the rebellion for expressing sentiments on the subjects of disunion and slavery which at the time were classed under the head of 'Abolitionism' Now, he says, if he should in the same place, express the same views he would be sent South as a rebel! He made this remark to illustrate the change of public sentiment in that State The people there including the largest slaveholders are thoroughgoing, out and out radical abolitionists—not gradual but immediate emancipationists Thus it is through out the South —in Arkansas Mississippi Louisiana and Tennessee the Union men who have been on the inside of the rebellion have grown up with Slavery have seen the workings of the institution and are able to speak from personal experience are bitter in their denunciations of Slavery and are in favor of burying its dead carcass out of sight with all possible dispatch These men put to shame the Conservatives of the North who are fearful lest the war may hurt the institution and desire that it may be in all its ugliness and wickedness and power to continue to curse the nation, and to breed at some future day another civil war But we are marching on —Cin Gazette

YOUNG AMERICA —A lady, teaching her little daughter four years old pointed to something in the book and asked

"What is that my dear"

"Why don't you know" inquired the child

"Yes, said the mother but I wish to hear it out of your mouth"

"Well," responded the little miss, "I do know"

"Tell me, then if you please" said the lady

"Why, no" insisted the little one with an arch look, "you know what it is, and I know what it is, and there is no need of saying anything more about it"

The Negro and Freedom

A Catholic surgeon who was much opposed to the policy of the Abolitionists, was with our army during the siege of Vicksburg and the campaign in the Mississippi. We had lately an opportunity of speaking with him and we heard him with surprise utter the most vehement denunciations of slavery—Like all our soldiers he returned from the South an uncompromising opponent of the system. He had attended various camps of the negroes, who had fled from their old masters or were abandoned by them He saw them of all ages and sexes suffering intensely—Disease and exposure and misery were taking them from life in hundreds Our surgeon friend did what he could to alleviate their lot He spoke to many young and old who in the most wretched condition and inquired would it not be better for you to return to your master You would be protected and properly clothed and fed The universal answer was even when at the point of death "No massa—rather die" The thought of liberty in their untutored minds was a compensation for all the ills they had to endure They felt like Patrick Henry and proved the truth of the sentiment with their lives, when he said in the days of the Revolution—"Give me liberty or give me death"—Catholic Telegraph

LAW FEES IN NEW YORK —The New York correspondent of the Boston Post writes

Some of our eminent limbs of the law are filling immense fees now a days the incomes of the most favored advocates being almost fabulous in amount $25,000 a year used to be considered well worth any lawyer's while and the hope of enjoying even a tithe of that sum has made many an humble but tender's mouth water But in these troublous and litigious times the big wig lawyers look upon twenty five, thirty or even forty thousand dollars is no great affair of an income and retainers of one, two, and three thousand dollars drop into their hands with as little concern on their parts as one tenth the sum was wont to inspire ten or a dozen years ago To prove that political prominence pays I may instance the case of a leading Democratic lawyer who last year received one hundred and twenty five thousand dollars for conducting two suits, and also the case of one of the most notorious of our Radical Republican attorneys, whose fee in a celebrated mining company's lawsuit was one hundred thousand dollars worth of the company's stock—the which he realized on at sixty two cents on the dollar Just think of sixty five thousand dollars as a single counsel fee! I ought to add that most of the prominent lawyers of New York are in the enjoyment of incomes ranging from thirty thousand to seventy thousand dollars a year Talk about the uncertainties of law! Surely, the only doubtful or uncertain thing about it—so far as lawyers are concerned—is whether they couldn't get more, if they had the cheek to ask it! Their motto would seem to be borrowed from Scott's Marmion — "Charge, Chester, charge!"
